Credit That's Overdue

Another school year is over. The bright scholars, the dull ones and the in-betweens are turned loose till next September.

This is a good time to appreciate the school system. It has been the custom recently to discuss only what is wrong with it. The gist of the discussion sometimes seems to be that everything is wrong with it.

But on second thought there must be some things about the school system that are working wonderfully well. The United States can't attribute all its existing qualities to heritage and accident. Some of them must be the result of training.

The test of education is not how it measures up to theories, which are always in conflict anyway, but how well it works. Its efficiency is a hard thing to measure. But as practical measurements go, the performance of the generation fighting World War II and regaining American security at a heavy price may be called reasonably reliable.

We have been told what the generation's educational shortcomings are. Some of our statisticians have painted a picture of the educational system at sixes and sevens. To be sure, there are lots of things wrong with the training of the men who have been called on to prove America's right to survive.

But there must be a lot of things right about their training, too. We are told, and it is easy to believe, that the nation's most potent weapon has been and will continue to be the adaptability of its manpower.

Youngsters who were playing games only yesterday have learned to fly intricate and dangerous fighting airplanes in a matter of months; our enemies took years to get the same hoped-for result—and didn't get it often.

The same kind of youngsters, most of them reared far from the sea, have become the manpower backbone of the world's largest and apparently its most efficient navy.

They have performed brilliantly in all the highly technical fields of modern warfare. They have carried American good will to every corner of the earth by demonstrating that they have skill of mind, hands and heart.

They have filled the ranks of a mighty army with all the qualities required for victory—discipline, faith, courage, mental and physical health and an intense loyalty to the methods and ethics of their civilization.

Their civilian counterparts in the war effort have helped to man the machines that produced war weapons. They have performed as artisans, doctors, lawyers, writers and artists. They have been the devoted wives who stood by while their young husbands and sweethearts gave years of their lives—and sometimes their lives—to the nation.

We have heard too much and thought too much about the things that could stand improvement in the educational system. They need to be considered, but they are only part of the picture.

In terms of results, the system has a vast deal to its credit. It has produced, in cooperation with all other elements of American society, the finest generation of young people ever seen. It has played its part in the development of every native-born American now alive.

Its scholars today, from the first grade to the post-graduates in the universities, are the hope of tomorrow—and in appearance and manner they are a justifiable hope. They are a credit to their instructors—the greatest reward there is for the men and women who toil year after year to make the American system work.

The Repetition Is Unbecoming

Two aspects of the war with Japan are testing American ability to handle unpleasant facts. All too often, the impulse is to make too much or too little of them, whereas the truth lies between these extremes.

The Japanese suicide attacks are a tactic of major importance in warfare in the Pacific, and they plainly are destined to get worse. Japan's tacticians are devoted to them. The opportunity to buy destruction at the price of life will increase as the attack on Japan grows. But the suicide attacks will not be a decisive factor. They will fail because in the error of exaggerating their importance those who think they will be decisive fail to give proper weight to their costliness to Japan.

At the other extreme are the Japanese balloon attacks on this continent. Their importance is being underrated. Americans are spending too much time telling each other that it is a foolish experiment. Perhaps it is. But the fact remains that in an ingenious manner an enemy has managed to reach the North American continent with high explosives. We have not heard the last and probably have not heard the worst of this bizarre type of terror attack.

The most unbecoming error is the error of repetition. The United States has paid a great price for misjudging the Japanese. We have taken them too seriously, or not seriously enough. For the duration of the war to settle the consequences of our misjudgment, everything Japan does should be judged without the benefit of wishful thinking.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, June 10.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of a very lively and interesting day in which it may be necessary to take under consideration some alluring, promising and gratifying proposition for future reference. The mind and its insight and ingenuity may be highly stimulated, but under current rule the economic or financial aspects are not encouraging. Plan, reflect and confer with elders or superiors but postpone action for the present.

Those whose birthday it is may find excitement in a surprising opening or long range proposition radically affecting the future fortunes and possibly uprooting present environs or ties. But since the mind is keen, farseeing and of extraordinary scope, it would be well to evaluate such opportunity from all practical as well as dramatic and romantic angles. Elders or superiors may have practical advice or real cooperation, but be wise in outlays and gambling with funds.

A child born on this day may possess exceptional talents, insight and inventive genius, with practical skill as well as unusual mentality, but its propensities may be lavish and it may take long chances, emotionally and economically.

For Monday, June 11.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast shows much concentrated effort in putting over important projects or unusual plans and objectives, in which the least results depend upon the soundness and practicability of the initial steps, with well-organized plans and strategies, and farseeing purpose, since there is possibility of trickery, fraud and all manner of subtle and undercover traps. Facts and figures may offset sinister performance, and bright ideas and skill may eventually pay surprising dividends, pleasant relations assisting finally.

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon to concentrate their best ideas and ingenious or creative skill, with much hard work and appraisal of underlying facts and figures, since treachery, fraud and subtle undercurrents menace. With shrewd and astute manipulation of causes and conditions there may be surprising denouements.

A child born on this day may have an unusual insight into hidden factors and forces, with keen ability and practical plans for eluding disaster.

Death of a Rumor

Admiral Nimitz has dispatched with frankness and finality the silly but persistent rumor that the United States wants to help from the British fleet in our "private war" in the Pacific.

As "a person of some responsibility in the Pacific," to quote his own words, the Pacific fleet's commander-in-chief has assured Britain that her help is needed and welcomed.

It is remarkable that anyone should have believed the insulting suggestion that our government or the chiefs of its armed forces would sacrifice lives and prolong the war for reasons of politics or jealousy. But so many Americans and Englishmen did that Admiral Nimitz was forced to take cognizance of the rumor and kill it. Let us hope that no one will feel called upon to attempt any resurrection.

Home repairs are now allowed by the WPB—but what's the use of fixing up the dining room?

Blood not only will tell, it has—told the boys in the armed forces that we're backing them up!

Some Types of Tumors That Grow On Scalp

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

MORE AND more have people been urged to be on the look-out for tumor growths no matter where they are. These tumors may occur on any part of the body. They are frequent on the scalp, and they may develop on the skin, the tissue under the skin, or the membrane around the skull.

Perhaps the most common form of tumor on the scalp is one known as a sebaceous cyst. These cysts are commonly known as wens. They may be small in size and stay that way for years or they may continue to grow until they reach the size of a grapefruit. As the cyst enlarges, the pressure may so interfere with the blood supply to the scalp that a spot of baldness occurs.

Fatty Fluids

These cysts are made up of a sac containing a thick sebaceous or fatty fluid. The longer the cyst is allowed to remain, the bigger it may become and the greater is the risk of complications, such as infection or ulcer formation in the skin due to pressure. Infection is a common complication. When it occurs, the cyst gets tender and tense.

If in infection recurs several times, the cyst wall becomes fastened to the scalp and a thick material develops within the cyst containing white blood cells and dead tissue cells. If an infected cyst breaks open, an ulcer or sore forms. If the contents of the cyst slowly escape day by day and dry in successive layers on the skin what is known as a sebaceous horn may develop. This horn is firmly attached at its bottom and may grow to several inches in length.

Thus, it may be seen that the sooner a sebaceous cyst is removed, the better. Even though the growth of the cyst may be slow, it practically always occurs. If no complications develop, the cyst can be removed with ease, but when complications such as infection have occurred, operation is more difficult.

As a general rule, operation for removal of the cyst can be done with a local anesthetic. A cut is made over the cyst and the wall of the cyst is then freed from the surrounding tissues and the entire cyst is easily removed in this way. If the wall is not completely removed, it is likely that the cyst will come back again.

Another type of tumor growth on the scalp is known as a lipoma, or fatty tumor. These tumors are soft, and freely movable in the scalp. They grow slowly as a rule, and cause no difficulty other than to interfere with the appearance. They can be easily removed, however, by a single operation.

Of course, whenever a growth appears on the scalp, an immediate examination by the doctor should be made to determine the type of tumor present. Operative treatment is generally required and when done early, the operations are simple and the growths easily eliminated.

• SO THEY SAY

They (the Japs) are tough fighters—I'd say just as tough as the Germans.

—Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, U. S. First Army, on return to U. S.

My greatest aim is to inculcate a new christian spirit in our youth.

—Dr. Hans Fuchs, Oberpresident of Rhine Province Military district.

A stockpiling program for another, future war, would be particularly senseless.

—Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson.

I may be naive or dumb, but I have a notion that if everybody in this country who wanted a job could get one after the war there wouldn't be any trouble.

—Aubrey Williams, former director of the National Youth Administration.

HOW MUCH TO MOVE A WAR?

AS SOON as we can, we'll bring to bear all the Japs all the additional might we've been using against Germany.

What will it cost, this Moving Day of War?

Estimate it in these terms: The job of moving millions of men from one front to another. Thousands of ships to carry the supplies of battle. Swarms of new-type aircraft to blast the path into enemy territory.

You can get an idea of the cost from the fact that Uncle Sam needs 7 billions from us in the mighty Seventh War Loan—now!

A SONG to REMEMBER

By Willard Wiener

XXVII
EDERIC was playing his Etude Major. He looked up from the piano. "Do you like it, a-venly?"

"If you," shall try always to be worthy These days at Nohant; I shall forget them."

"I came to him at the piano. embraced."

"Monsieur, you go back to tomorrow?"

"We go back together."

"But, George, we had ned—"

"Yet plans change, my ng. I want to write, my head d of ideas—and Nohant is no e to work. Too close to the d. There is always Paris to y you. I thought of going to

"Far?"

"Farther and farther but it's not far enough. I go to Ma-a—that wonderful island off coast of Spain—"

"But George, without you?"

"We could be together, Fred—"

"Majorca?"

"Why not?"

"ederic shook his head."

"I would like it, George—"

"Then it's done!"

"There is Professor Elsner and contracts to be signed with

"Chopin and his purposes!"

"I strode across the room. 'His cher—that's one; his country—e—his two; his contracts—that's e—"

"George!"

"Yes, Monsieur," she said mock-ly."

"You can be very spiteful, can't y?"

"—I am not on being spiteful at all. I am not on my best behavior ay, either, I insist on enumer-ing all the purposes that keep r Frederic from being himself."

Jozef Elsner, in Paris, wrote in trembling hand to Papa and amma Chopin:

"You cannot imagine Frederic's coes. It is just as I had dreamed d as we had often talked about. e must have plenty of rest, of rse, and before his concerts be- n, I have decided he should have holiday and he has gone to the land of Majorca where he will lax, and—"

Jozef Elsner looked toward r Frederic's room. "Frederic! There as only the echo of his own voice."

"—Tch, tch, Elsner, what is the atter with you?"

From Nohant to Majorca! He dowed wherever she led and the arther they went together, out e the world (or away from it) the e faith he seemed to have in himself and the more he leaned on er. There were moments—very ong ones—when he despaired of the future and prayed insistence r the firm hand of Jozef Elsner o pull him back, to get his feet nto the earth again.

—Something is happening. What is it, Professor? I don't know. How can I tell you when I don't know?"

—And still he stumbled on. "I am not well. I am dizzy. Perhaps it is only the travel."

—From Nohant to Lyons, to Avignon, to Arles. Then a few days at Perpignan. George said: "My blessed one, you are as fresh as a rose and as rosy as a turnip!"

She lied. His cheeks were white. But at Palma he would rest, whenever to God they would get there. —On to Portvendres and then by steamer to Barcelona. They walked together through the an- cient city. They would soon resume —toward the end of the world. Why had he attempted the trip? It was far. He should never have attempted it. But the rest, when he got there, would undoubtedly do him good. He was greatly in need of a rest. There had been no word from Professor Elsner.

Majorca at last! —Their home, where in the old monastery of Valdemosa, "a won- derful place," he wrote, "the most beautiful situation in the world; sea, mountains, palms, a cemetery, a crusaders' church, ruined mosques, aged trees, thousand- year-old olives. Ah, I am coming alive a little—I am near to what is most beautiful I am better—"

—Palms, cedars, cacti, olives, pomegranates. A sky like tur- quoise, a sea like lapis lazuli, mountains like emerald, air like heaven. Sun all day, and hot; everyone in summer clothing; at night guitars and singing for hours. Huge balconies with grapevines overhead; Moorish walls. Every- thing looks toward Africa, as the town does. In short, a glorious life!"

There was no piano. George had written to Piel that the instru- ment had not arrived. "Piel will not dare not to send it," she said.

One night Frederic was awak- ened, startled from his sleep by a voice, familiar yet which he could not place. He listened. He had heard it distinctly but he did not hear it now. He heard only the wind in the palms and the sea whipping against the beach. The voice? He strained his ear. Nothing. Then, as he was lapsing into sleep, he caught it again. "Frederic!"

Just that one word. "Frederic!"—that one word, but the voice was screaming it. Then, suddenly, it was still.

—Konstancja's? No. Not hers. Professor Elsner's? No. Ah, Mam- ma's, perhaps? No. —Who then cried "Frederic!" What voice screamed his name so loud that he was awakened from his sleep? He could not think. Maybe if he could hear it once again he would recog- nize it. He listened. Nothing. The voice was gone.

—It was the inward voice. It had awakened him. But he had not recog- nized it. It was screaming still but Frederic could no longer hear. (To be continued)

Germans Find the Truth Is Painful

Because townspeople of Burgstufert, Germany, showed resentment against British occupation forces, Allied Military Government authorities ordered them into the local movie theater, as pic- tured at top, to see "Village of Hate," documentary film showing German atrocities at the noto- rious Belsen and Buchenwald murder camps. Below, women emerge from the theater, grim- faced, some weeping, after seeing the filmed horrors.

U.S.S. "X" Sends Torpedo Into Japanese Carrier And Sinks It

The name of submarine "X" can not even now be made known but this part of its story is among the "now it can be told" series on the underwater heroes of the United States Navy.

By MURLIN SPENCER

PEARL HARBOR — It was 4:35 p. m. when Commander L. D. Mc- Gregor and the men of the subma- rine "X" opened fire on the big, new Japanese carrier and in 15 min- utes they sent her to the bottom of the Pacific.

That brief, courageous action broke the hearts of the Imperial Nipponese navy because when Mc- Gregor, the daring, sandy-haired submariner from Annapolis, Md., sent the heavily loaded warship down he knocked a vital piece out of the enemy's rapidly weakening naval machine.

The action was swift. Mc Gregor told the story this way:

"Commenced firing (torpedoes). First One Steps Ship

"First torpedo hit causing the target to stop and to commence burning aft. The target opened fire, just prior to being hit, with all guns on the starboard side.

"Carrier continues to fire all starboard guns. Its escorting de- stroysers are milling about dropping depth charges indiscriminately.

"Reload for another shot at tar- get.

"Carrier still burning. "Torpedo hit carrier. The sharp crash of the torpedo explosion was followed instantly by thundering explosions, apparently from maga- zine and gasoline stowage. Huge clouds of smoke, flames and debris burst into the air enveloping the carrier. When executive officer looked several seconds later he still could not see the ship due to the smoke."

Nine minutes later when Mc- Gregor swept the seas with his per- iscope he could see only the escort- ing destroyers. The carrier, her decks loaded with airplanes, and carrying hundreds of men of the Japanese navy, had gone to the bot- tom.

It sounds easy enough the way Mc Gregor tells the story.

The submarine was, relatively new one. It already had more than paid for itself by sinking thousands of tons of Japanese shipping.

Its career had started quietly. It found a Japanese soldier on a raft and took him aboard and later transferred the soldier, who could not speak English, to another sub. But that time the Nipponese liked the American navy so well he will- ingly swam between the two subs to make the transfer.

For Traveling

You can rejuvenate last year's dress or suit so that it defies anyone to guess its age if you'll brighten it up with a pair of matching accessories. Example of the kind that can make old duds look new is shown in the Zoe DeSalle-designed ensemble of hat and bag made of gray wool and banded in yellow. The drawstring shoulder - strap bag doubles as a weekend traveler, roomy enough to accommodate wardrobe necessities.

WE'RE BUILDING UP A WHOLE NEW AIR FORCE

Fastest plane in the world! That's what they say about the Army's new jet-propelled P-80. There's no propeller. No vibration. No noise—because the noise is behind the plane and never catches up. And the speed is incredible!

A new B-32 bomber now being built makes even this giant B-29 look small. It's capable of carrying greater loads of death and destruction than anything our enemies have seen yet!

THAT'S WHY YOUR 7TH WAR LOAN QUOTA IS THE BIGGEST YET!

It's been said before. But it's worth saying again:

"This war's not getting any cheaper!"

For instance, look at our air force. For some time now, we've had the biggest in the world.

Then along came the jet-propelled plane, and several other technological developments. So now, unless we want our air force to drop behind the parade, we've got to build thousands and thousands of these new-type planes.

Building a whole new air force is expensive. But we can't afford not to!

That's one reason why your quota in the 7th War Loan is the biggest yet. There are plenty of others: the need for caring for a list of casualties that is well over the half-million mark; the need for moving millions of soldiers from west to east; the need for building many more ships for the naval war against Japan.

And there's another big reason: this mighty 7th War Loan is really two War Loans in one.

By this time last year, we had bought extra Bonds in two War Loans. So this year, we must buy as many Bonds in this one Loan as we had bought last year in two.

Buying that many extra Bonds may seem tough. But it's a cinch compared to crawling up the beach at Iwo Jima.

If you have an income, whether from work, land, or capital, you have a quota in the 7th War Loan. Find out what that quota is—and make it!

FIND YOUR QUOTA . . . AND MAKE IT!
IF YOUR AVERAGE INCOME PER MONTH IS:	YOUR PERSONAL WAR BOND QUOTA IS: (CASH VALUE)	MATURITY VALUE OF 7TH WAR LOAN BONDS BOUGHT

Leetonia Boosters, Recreation Make Four-Way Tie For First

Join Mullins, News In Lead By Jolting Deming, Eagles In Wide Open, Loose Games

The Eagles and Demings continued their cellar-dwelling ways in Class A softball last night at Centennial park as the Leetonia and Recreation teams moved into a four-way tie for first place with a pair of 14-1 victories.

The Recs tagged Demings 14-1 and Leetonia did likewise to the Eagles. The wins move the Old Timers and the Boosters into a four-way tie for first place with Mullins and the Salem News, all with two wins and a single loss.

Despite the absence of any air-tight pitching last night, both the Eagles and Demings teams found scoring an awkward feat while their opponents had little trouble getting runs even though the hits didn't pile up easily.

In two wide open ball games, neither winning team got as many hits as it did runs. The Recs tallied their 14 on 10 hits and the Leetonia men got 14 runs on just six hits.

Walks and errors in both games added to the run totals. Ralph "Sarge" Gregg's hurling was creditable as he kept a bumper blow well enough spaced to hold the scoring to a minimum. Don "Lefty" Herold showed the way for Leetonia, setting the Eagles down with six hits and issuing no walks of any consequence. He had the game well in tag all the way.

The Recreation burst forth with more hitting power from Pitcher Odey's tosses than they have seen for better than a season. Charlie Huffer parked out a four bagger with the bases loaded in the second, when eight big runs crossed the plate.

"Peanuts" Debnar also got a homer as did "Corny" Sabotka and Vince Moore, bringing the total to nine so far this season at the park. No batter as yet has two homers.

The Eagles had one bright spot in their evening. They uncovered a Tom Minor what looks to be the best pitching find of the season.

The lanky Freshman moved from behind the plate to the pitching mound in the third to relieve Walter Ehrhart and turned in an impressive show, striking out seven Leetonia batters in less than five frames. He only walked two men and allowed but three hits.

Blessed with more of a "mystery" ball than speed, the youngster had the Boosters baffled for several frames, but they did manage to tally four on a walk, two hits and two errors in the last inning.

DERBY DAY HERE AND ENTRIES SET FOR START IN MUD

Track May Improve By Post Time; Race Looms As Richest Ever

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 9.—Churchill Downs surrendered today to the spirit of the 71st Kentucky Derby, perhaps the richest in its history, and another war-time crowd that may reach 70,000.

The crowd began streaming through the gates hours before the nine-race program began, unimpaired by another drenching deluge might splash down before the seventh race, the Derby event. Post time is 5:15 p. m. CWT.

The names of three speeders from the east, topped by P. W. Hooper's Hoop, Jr., and rated as the classiest of a sparkling field of 16 three-year-olds, were on the lips of the most everybody as the probable winner of the punishing mile and a quarter race.

The other two easterners were Col. C. V. Whitney's Jeep and Henry Lunger's Alexis.

Also prominently considered were Warren Wright's Pot o' Luck and Darby Dieppe, entry of Mrs. W. G. Lewis of Evans, Ky., surprise winner of the recent Blue Grass stakes, principal Kentucky preparatory test for the Derby nominees.

Richest Yet

If all 16 starts, it will be the richest Derby in history with a gross value of $86,875, and with the owner of the winning thoroughbred drawing down $64,850.

Hoop, Jr., a lean magnificent bay colt, probably will go to the post a 5 to 2 favorite. He will be ridden by the cagey, hard-riding Arceus, in quest of his third Derby triumph.

Pot o' Luck and Jeep probably will go to the post as 4 to 1 second choices.

If the track remains muddy, Darby Dieppe's chances are considered better, but track conditions also will improve the chances of Hoop, Jr., Foreign Agent, Alexis, Tiger Rebel, Byemabond, Air Sailor and Misweet, only filly in the race. She will be the 25th filly to start through the years of the race. Only one, Regret, poked her nose down in front and that was 30 years ago.

Scattering showers were forecast today, but with a full afternoon of sunshine, the sandy track, noted for its quick drying qualities, could be "good"—fairly dry but not fast, by post time.

Darby Dieppe, Winner Of Blue Grass Stakes, Enters Derby

Darby Dieppe... a real Derby Darby.

NEW YORK—Darby Dieppe was the last of the Kentucky Derby candidates to stick his nose into the picture by winning the Blue Grass Stakes at a mile and an eighth, final test before the Run of the Roses at Churchill Downs June 9.

This performance made the hard boots sit up and take notice. Before the race they had completely ignored Mrs. W. G. Lewis's gray colt by Foray II out of La Cromia, by Solario, and he went to the post an outsider in the betting at 18 to 1.

Darby Dieppe got off ninth, ran in the rack till the stretch. Then jockey, Melvin Calvert let him down, he shot through on the rail and went on to win as he pleased by a couple of lengths in 1:53 2-5.

Darby was no great shucks as a two-year-old. He didn't win a single stake as a juvenile. He started 16 times won twice, was second six times and third twice. This year, including his triumph in the Blue Grass, he won all three starts, invariably coming from behind, an indication he may have a liking for distance.

Darby Dieppe is ideally bred for the Kentucky Derby. On his daddy's side he inherits speed, for Foray II was a sprinter of high class, but he couldn't go a distance. On his dam's side—that's a different story. La Cromia's sire, Solario, an English horse, was an excellent router.

In 1943 Solario's offspring won races averaging 10.81 furlongs, a little more than a mile and a quarter, the Derby distance.

Darby Dieppe lived up to his breeding by making a show of some of the best regarded entries for this 71st running of the historic fixture at Churchill Downs in coping the Blue Grass Stakes.

Parole, running for Pierre Lorrillard in England, raced 10 seasons, 1875-1884, and won 59 of 137 races and $82,909.25.

That, however, doesn't seem to scare Darby Dieppe.

Stamford School Team Unbeaten In 19 Games

AP News-features

STAMFORD, Conn.—A strong claimant for unofficial national high school baseball honors is the Stamford high school baseball team which finished an unbeaten season with a record of 19 straight victories.

Holding both the official county title and a record that is unsurpassed in the state, Stamford, coached by Paul Kuczo, a graduate of Villanova, has been put forth by its admirers as being justly entitled to national honors.

With a trio of pitchers, two of whom, Joe Eggert and Lou Ferrara, carried the main burden, the Stamford team swept through its amazing record in 34 days. Sometimes the team played as often as every weekday.

An indication of the strength of the team can be seen in the fact that the New York Giants signed the second baseman and sent him to their Erie farm club and that they would have taken at least one more player had not college beckoned too strongly.

Though unbeaten, the team had five close calls when it was forced to come from behind to win. It was not a slugging team but it carried a dangerous punch at the bat.

The great record of the baseball team climaxes a brilliant year for the Stamford school which won conference championships in football, basketball and track.

His battleship, while under threat of air attack, moved up within 3,000 yards of the shore, cruising slowly back and forth and pulverizing the beach targets at point-blank range. The crew could clearly see the explosions from the ship's shells as her guns smashed pillboxes, gun emplacements, ware houses and trench fortifications.

The ship's anti-aircraft gunners fought off deadly air assaults during the bombardment period, and on one occasion only skillful maneuvering of the vessel by her commanding officer saved her from a torpedo which had been dropped.

vasion. The same applies to Japan. Cut off and largely impotent, Japanese forces in these areas hardly seem to constitute a sufficient menace to our rear to warrant major action.

Meanwhile, other consolidation efforts go forward. American forces on Luzon have struck into the Cagayan valley, good fighting terrain which leads all the way to Aparri on the island's northern shore, and the campaign should take on a quickened tempo. The Japanese still hold something like 20,000 square miles here which is vitally needed for air bases nearer Formosa and the Japan-China supply line. Once secured, even our fighter planes will be within range of everything from Hainan island to Okinawa and as much as 300 to 400 miles inland in China. Shuttle flights might be possible.

Under the circumstances, a special meeting of the Japanese cabinet is not out of place. And the war of "regret" which Premier Suzuki wagers over the war with the United States are probably the most sincere he ever spoke.
